Name: Ronald G. Shapiro, Ph.D.

Email address: DrRonShapiro1981@SigmaXi.Net

Short biography:

Dr. Ronald G. Shapiro is a speaker and consultant in career development, education, human factors/ergonomics, leadership development, learning, management development, and psychology. After graduating with his Ph. D. in Psychology from The Ohio State University, he taught at Denison University, University of Connecticut at Stamford, and Dutchess Community College, before moving to a career in management and cooperate learning and development at IBM. While working for IBM, Dr. Shapiro began speaking about Human Factors at local schools and events. One school advertised that he was speaking about leadership development, which lead Dr. Shapiro to expand his speaking repertoire to include leadership development. Today Ron provides Education by Entertainment programs for career planning, leadership development, human factors, and more, nationally and internationally. Dr. Shapiro is also an independent consultant working in industry and academia, focusing on human factors/ ergonomics, and traditional/non-traditional forms of learning and career development.
